THE QUEEN'S LATEST PROCLAMATION.

LONDON, July 11th. Mr. Asquith, Secretary of State for the Home Department, has by command published the following proclamation:-

Her Majesty the Queen wishes to express to her people how gratified and touched she is by the great loyalty and devotion to herself and family so strikingly evinced on the occasion of the marriage of her beloved grandson and his dear bride, the Princess May. Such a manifestation of feeling is indeed nothing new to her Majesty, for in west and in wee she has ever met with the warmest kindness and sympathy, and for this she feels were deeply grateful. Her Majesty knows that the people of her wast empire are well aware how truly her heart beats for them in all their joys and sorrows, and that it is in the existence of this tie between them and herself where (sic) the real strength of the Empire lies. Her Majesty concludes by wishing to join the people in their warmest prayers and wishes for the welfare of her grandchildren. [Did ever the comic and pathetic elements of expression wrestle so for supremacy in such limited space as they do in the above screed And, by the by, it used to be universally taught in well-regulated religious circles that the "Holy Bible" was the secret of Britain's greatness, though it would seem that the dectrine embodied in this royal proclamation places the Book in the absolute background. vast empire are well aware how truly her heart beats for them in all their joys and soriows, and it is in the existence of this tie between them and herself that the real strength of the empire lies." It finds that there should be a general feeling of relief that something like a fixed ratio has been attained for Indo-British trade without committing the Empire to bimetallism. Secondly, it expects to see a large and increasing flow of British capital to India and Ceylon for investment in planting or manufacturing industries, in railways, tramways, hotels or other public improvements.

"HISTORICAL evidences of Christianity" is the title of a small work, specially written for China, published in English and Chinese by the American Presbyterian Mission Press, Shanghai (Hongkong, Messrs. Kelly & Walsh, Limited). The work is well written, by the Rev. T. Richard, of the English Baptist Mission in China, who shows by a large mass of historical facts that Christianity has been in all ages and in all countries the ploneer of civilisation and progress. and that the voluntary efforts of missionaries not only in teaching the doctrines of peace and goodwill among men, but also in imparting scientific and commercial knowledge all over the earth, have had more influence than any other force in the world's history.

A SINGAPORE paper states that at Socrabaya recently, three warehouses were set on fire for the purpose of obtaining the insurance money. but the fire was fortunately discovered in time and ample proofs were present of the wilful attempt to burn down the warehouses. Two natives have been arrested who contess they were employed by Chinese to set fire to th godowns and they were each to receive an advance of grs. 300 and 500 after the operation had been successfully carried out. They were supplied with two tins of oil and some gunny bags. The oil was sprinkled about the warehouses and in the gutters. The insurance companies propose to give the police officer who has brought about the detection of the crime testimonial.

GREAT FIRE IN SINGAPORE.

A BLOCK OF BUILDINGS DESTROYED.

One of the most disastrous fires Singapore has seen for some time past took place last evening. says the Straits Times of the Est inst., and resulted in a block of buildings and the stock therein of two of the business firms of the town being consumed, the bare walls left alone standing. The scene of the fire was in Battery Road and Flint Street, in the square block of buildings, two-storey high, used by Messre. McAllster and Co. who carry on a large business as ship chandlers, sail makers, and general merchants and whose stores are partle tioned off by a brick wall from those of Messra. William McKerrow and Co., engaged merchants. The front of these premises is in Battery load, and are bounded on the one side by Flint Street, which extends for about eighty yards and terminates at the river side or Bont Quay. The buildings are bounded on the other side-McKerrows section-by a narrow passage, separating fortunately-as will be seen-from another langer and costlier block of buildings. Had the flames seized this lef hand block, as they continually threatened to do, nothing probably would have saved that side of Battery Road from destruction, as the godowns all more or less contain stock of an imflammable nature. The block destroyed extended in the direction of Boat Quay for about thirty yards, where it was divided by a wall from the premises of Messrs, E. and H Hinnekindt merchant, of Boat Quay and 2, Flint Street. To the thickness of this divisionary wall, and to its superior height, the firm of Hinnekindt

THE KOLAO HUI REVOLT IN HUNAN.

The native officials at Shanghai have received telegraphic despate es from Wuchang to the effect that on the 7th of June last, nearly 4,000 Kolao Huls raised the standard of rebellion at a mountain town belonging to the jurisdiction of Lilinghsien, Hunan, their manifestoes calling upon the society men to revenge the deaths their chiefs, nearly fifteen of whom have already suffered at the hands of the governments of Liangklang and Hukuang, alone. Many of their emissaries are also said to have arrived at Ichang, which is a Hupeh centre, having been made so in order to be in touch with the Sacchuan Kolan Huls. This, says the N. C. FOOCHOW NOTES.

Foochow, July 8th, 1893. It is reported that business is pretty brisk amongst the natives in the city just now owing to the approaching literary examinations. The price of cotton yarn which was lately quoted $84 per bale has risen to $87 to $88 per bale. Piece goods have likewise advanced in price and we understand there is a good demand at the same time at the advance. The province of Fuklen is required this year to send to Peking Tis: 150,000 from its salt tax receipts. A first instalment of Tis. 50,000 is now being remitted by mercantile bills in charge of an officer from Foochow.

Another case of drowning has taken place this week. A little native of 4 or 5 years of age was seen climbing on to the roof of a houseboat as she was being moored alongside the Halkwan jetty. The boat was no sooner made fast than another lad, about 10 years older, jumped into the river for a swim, causing in his action the little fellow to lose his balance and tumble overboard and the poor child was drowned.

A bundle of jewellery, said to be of $150 value, was snatched from the hand of a native woman in broad daylight while walking through a frequented street in the city last Monday, and the thief made off too promptly to be caught. The occurence having been reported to the Viceroy, he has issued a proclamation referring to the case and urged upon the magistrates the necessity of catching the thief, as such thefis are far too frequent. Officers, he states, are appointed to protect the citizens from such outrages and he cannot but think they must be neglecting their duty.

The thunder-storm which broke over the set tlement between 2 and 3 o'clock in the afternoon of Tuesday last was quite alarming particularly to many sitting in their offices with the telephone acting on its own account in sympathy with the lightning. At the central office they had to give the apparatus's wide berth, and extensive repairs were needed subsequently. The house opposite Messrs. Feirhurst& Co.'s hong was struck by the lightning but no great damage was done. large tree near Kushan, said to be upwards of a century old, was struck and split in halves, much to the discomforture of the inhabitants of the neighbouring village.

It is many months since we have had a tiger in the near neighbourhood, but one made its appearance in the Loong Wong district last week and carried off a native lad 15 years of age. The lad was accompanying his father in the early hours of the morning to a field which they were to plough, when the animal sprang upon them and carried off the son, of whom no trace has since been found. The incident was noticed by some agriculturists in the distance who immediately left their work and ran to the spot, but they arrived too late to render assistance, the boy had been carried off and, the old man lay dead, killed, it was supposed, by fright, as no bruises were found on him. -Echo.

This was to the effect that on no account would an escort be granted to foreigners to go to Sungpu. He would send himself and have the bodies brought back, but any foreigner going would do so at his own risk. It was hard indeed to think of the mangled remains of our late friends as they lay in Sungpu, and of our own inability to render them the last but necessary attentions which the living can pay the dead. Just as, in like circumstances, they would gladly have undertaken these for us, so there were many of us an old Scotch Psalm kept ringing in our ears-The bodies of thy servants they have cast forth to be meat To ray nous lowis, thy dear Saints' flesh they gave to beasts

He says they were swollen to an immense size, and no one was paying them any attention, nor had the native authorities, up to that date, taken the slightest notice of the matter. I have no doubt but this is a perfectly true statement, and probably would be found to be true of this very moment. We live in serious times; all these things mean much .- N. C. Dally News.

CHINKIANG.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT).

On Monday evening 3rd July, a prisoner at this city was condemned to the death cage. He sto adittle girl about four months ago and sold her for $80, in Sherchon, in Annul province. He ther returned and offered to help her parents find her for the sum of $20. This they agreed to. H accompanied her father to Shencheu and pointed out to him the house, but prudently kept out of sight when the child was sought for and demanded to be given up. On the owners refusing to surrender the child whom they had lawfully bought as they thought, the matter was taken to the officials. This led to the discovery that the seller, and the one helping to find her, were one and the same person. He was promptly arrested and sent back to Chinklang, the scene of his crime, for trial. The ordinary punishment for the crime of man-stealing strangulation, I am told. The death-cage is not recognised by Chinese law as a legal punishment, and those who dle in it are reported as "dying under punishment" as practised at this place. I have learned two things which surprise me very much.

. Ist.—It is considered by the people to be the mildest mode of punishment. This may be partly owing to the fact that at the end of the second or third day the official occasionally relents and pardons the offender. and.—The criminal is not expected to starva to death. This I was under the impression was the death intended. The cage-used-here is a few feet square and six or seven feet bigh. The top has a hole in it like a canque. When a criminal is put in the cage this is fitted around his neck and he hangs by his head. But that death may be slow, ten or twelve bricks are placed under his feet. On the second day several of these bricks are removed, so that only with straightened feet'can he relieve his head of his weight. On the third or fourth day all the bricks are taken away and he is left to hang. At this functure, however, a piece of wood is mercifully thrust under his thin in such a manner as to speedily strangle him. The man who was put out at 6 p.m. on Monday, yesterday at 4 p.m. in desperation kicked over his pile of bricks, hoping thus speedily to end his misery. But I hear that he was still living at one o'clock this morning. It is to be hoped that death has ere this put an end to his earthly misery. Seasonable rains have given one of the best indigo crops that has blest the farmers of this region for some years. The rice also has been got in and is growing finely. But there are great apprehensions of the locusts On several days small swarms have passed over us. They have but to alight to change the now beautifully green rice fields anto barren wastes. The hot weather has so wilted us at this little port that although yesterday was the 'Glorious Fourth," no one was found patriotic enough to utter a "single "hurrah," fire a gun, or pop a cracker, much less attempt the reading of the Declaration of Independence to a sleepy audience. Or possibly this silence was not wholly owing to the hot weather. It may be that many who hall from the "Flowery Flag

WAS JACOB GROSS A FOOL?

I can'r make one of a party of thirteen," he exclaimed: " some of us will be sure to die within a

Thus spoke barber Jacob Gross, of Batavis, on the 12th of November last. The occasion was a dinner party. When the guests were all scated Gross noticed that there were thirteen at table.

The others tried to laugh him out of his superstition, but he insisted that he would not est as one of the company of thirteen. A fourteenth guest was therefore added to the number. "Now we're safe," said Gross, and the festivities

Gross boarded at a hotel in Batavis. Ten days later the hotel was burned to the ground. The next morning the body of a man was found in the ruins.

It was the body of barber Gross.

Now, this is a curious thing to happen, certainly but is it more than that? Do you believe there is anything in the common notion that thirteen is an unlucky number? Or that Briday is an unlucky day of the week? As much business is done on the 18: of the month as on any other date, and on Briday as on any other week day. You wouldn't refuse to take thirteen eggs for a dozen if your grocer insisted on it, neither do you have more bad luck on Fridays than on any other day of the seven. No, no, it's all humbug and nonsense. Barber Gross's superstition had nothing under the sun to do with his death.

Besides, he dined as one of fourises persons, not thirteen. Don't be silly. Understand this: Nature indulges in no senseless tricks. She kills men without hesitation for violating the laws of life, but not for assembling in groups of thirteen at dinner. Here we have a man who says he was afraid to cat. Why, in Morey's name, was he afraid to eat? Had he, too, some idle and foolish stuff in his head about bad luck? Not a bit. He'd been glad enough to have eaten in a thirteen party on
